CIC appoints new Regional BIM Ambassador

The Construction Industry Council is pleased to welcome new Regional BIM Ambassador Steve Race to the team.

Steve Race was part of a team that developed one of the world's first 3D multi disciplinary CAD systems at Oxford Regional Health Authority thirty five years ago, a system which would now carry the label 'BIM' and which was aimed at the first assessments of how new technologies would change the way in which the Health Estate would be managed. Steve has accumulated a unique body of experience in co-operative working which embraces software platforms, business strategies for BIM, project team facilitation, contributions to standards organisations and a more collaborative legal landscape as means of exploring and implementing BIM.

Steve has been recruited to Work alongside CIC and the BIM Task Group to facilitate the delivery of the BIM Hubs Regional Events; a series of sixteen free half day workshops entitled 'A BIM Focus' organised by CIC to take place this autumn, commencing on 25th September 2012 in Newcastle.

Steve's role will also include:

- Supporting the Regional Hubs in their development
- Work supporting the implementation of new hubs post the event
- Providing advice to the Hubs and attending meetings as necessary to help facilitate them.
